As Chattanooga's first magnet school, CSAS follows the principles of The Paideia Proposal written by Mortimer Adler, advocating the same challenging curriculum for all students. The course of study is general, not specialized; liberal, not vocational; humanistic, not technical. While our students are well-prepared for college and career, we feel strongly that students should also be productive citizens who are able to participate in a democracy. To that end, we value discussion of and engagement with thoughtful texts. Our student body is diverse - our students come from nearly all zip codes in Chattanooga! This diversity allows students to explore ideas in a way that mirrors our ever-changing world!
